ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Soldering of a first electrode and first circuit component, soldering of a second electrode and second circuit component, and hardening of an encapsulating resin are simultaneously performed by using the encapsulating resin which having a hardening accelerating temperature higher than a preheating temperature and equal to or lower than a main heating temperature.